The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

PLOT ON HITLER

Those whose business it is to study the intricate problem of German politics have now come to the conclusion that if it hadn't been for the July 20 putsch against Hitler, we might have been saved six months or so of fighting.

The attempt on Hitler's life gave him the excuse to clean out every military man not in sympathy with the war, and his military leaders since then have lacked the courage to suggest an armistice — even though they knew the war was hopeless.

Here is the inside story of what happened.

The Hitler plot had been cleverly arranged by the British. They had been working for months with a small secret segment of anti-Hitler officers inside the German army. Actually, their pipelines into Germany had been laid even before the war started. Weeks and weeks of the most minute planning had gone into the plot.

However, as in anything as dangerous as an attempt to assassinate the world's chief madman, something went wrong at the last minute. A high-up German officer on the general staff had agreed to place a briefcase containing a time-bomb alongside Hitler's chair during a meeting of the general staff.

He did so. But either Hitler moved away or else did not sit where expected. At any rate when the bomb went off, it killed several officers, but Hitler was only wounded in the hand by a bomb fragment.

That incident, however, touched off the bloodiest blood purge in history. Neutral sources estimate that 100,000 German officers and other high-up officials suspected of anti-Hitler bias were killed. Any German leader who had grown cool regarding the war or was slightly critical of Hitler was included.

In the last war, it was the German general staff who demanded of the Kaiser that he sue for peace as early as September 29, 1918. The German civilian government resisted. In this war it was expected that the professional military caste would see the futility of further fighting and also sue for peace after the Normandy invasion last June.

But as a result of the July purge the military leaders who survived dared not brave Hitler's wrath.

POSTWAR CONSCRIPTION

Although no final decision has been made by FDR personally, Undersecretary of War Bob Patterson and several other White House advisers are urging him to press for immediate congressional action on a postwar compulsory military training law covering all men 18 to 26.

Patterson and some of the army brass hats want Roosevelt to jam the conscription bill through congress before the war is over. They are using the line with FDR that passage of a peacetime conscription bill by congress now will be further evidence to the United Nations that this country will maintain a sizable military force to help keep the peace.

Congressional leaders so far are against immediate consideration, feel they'll have their hands full in the next few months getting more urgent postwar measures through capitol hill, such as jobs, without starting up a terrific controversy over conscription.

Note: The White House is being deluged with mail against postwar conscription. Most of the public seems to be against it.

C. P. Klassen Thanks Solicitors For Cooperation

Let me herewith express my appreciation and thanks to every one who helped in the solicitation for the Red Cross. Our goal was a high one—quota was $6,000.00—and we have reached it and to date over $8000.00 has come in. Such a successful drive is of course due to those who were faithful to call at every home, even call-backs if the people were not home the first time.

To Mrs. Thompson and her helpers from the Cambrian district goes the credit for canvassing the Cambrian and up to the Union district. The County Hospital had almost 200 contributors, with an unexpectedly large contribution. I believe every road and street in our district has been thoroughly canvassed; should however, someone have been omitted, the contribution will now gladly be received at the Campbell Water company.

The Campbell Press has given the Red Cross Drive very fine publicity in almost every edition and we thank Mrs. Smith for it.

Last, but not least, I owe my word of appreciation to the Campbell Water company where I was permitted to make my headquarters, and especially to Jack Murdock, without whose willing and helping hand, such a large task would have been very difficult.

As this money goes to the far-flung corners of the earth to bring joy and comfort, may the recipients also recognize the God who is the Giver of all good gifts.

Association Aids Members in Need Of Orchard Help

The California Prune and Apricot association is rendering a unique service to its members in the Campbell-Los Gatos area. When local growers are in need of ranch help, they contact their association for men to spray, prune, gather brush, dig up dead trees, plant new trees and many other ranch jobs. The men are Mexican Nationals and are housed and fed at the Sunsweet plant in Campbell under the supervision of L. V. Garner, plant foreman and E. W. Anderson, plant office man.

Since last prune season an average of 15 men have been kept busy by Sunsweet growers. Members call for men in the morning and return them at night. The association pays each man weekly, and collects from grower members once a month. The association attends to all of the personal services the Nationals require such as taking them to the clinic when they are sick, sending their monies to Mexico and attending to their rationing stamps. These men are insured under the associations compensation insurance which covers them while at work and during transportation.

Police District Petition Filed With Supervisors

A petition signed by 65 taxpayers of the unincorporated town of Campbell was filed with the County Board of Supervisors asking for the formation of a Campbell police district.

The petition has been referred by the Supervisors to the office of the District Attorney, Leonard R. Avilla, who states that it will probably come up for a public hearing Monday, April 16. The clerk of the Board will give due notice by posting and publication.

EASTER

Easter has an eternal and immeasurable significance for mankind. The Resurrection of the great Nazarene was the highest and most convincing proof of his teachings. It gave to humanity unquestionable evidence of the immortality of life.

The Resurrection serves as a permanent reminder to the world that although the forces of tyranny and oppression at times seem invincible and able to defy the very Power of Heaven, they are inevitably swept to destruction by the onward march of Truth.

Today darkness still covers much of the earth, but the forever fact that "right makes might" is again being demonstrated. Since last Easter the "great rock" of despotism has been "rolled away" from many a nation. In Europe Nazism and all that it stands for reels toward its doom. In Asia the days of its counterpart are numbered.

Christian men and women would much rather settle differences between nations by peaceful means. But they have learned that it is wiser to take up the sword in defense of democracy and decency than to permit their God-given rights to be lost even temporarily.

Christian civilization believes in the individuality of man. It holds that even the lowliest and most humble of men are deserving of respect and consideration from their fellow beings. Christianity is the antithesis of totalitarianism.

The teachings of Jesus are something infinitely more than can be expressed in rites or rituals alone. They find their true manifestation in practical goodness in daily life.

At this Eastertide each one of us can renew his efforts to make this world a better world by making his life a better life.

APRIL FOOL'S DAY

Don't say we didn't warn you!

If on April 1 you see a wallet lying on the street with a greenback peeking out, it's 10-to-1 somebody is peeking from a window or doorway waiting to give you the well-known horse laugh when you pick it up and find it is only a bit of April Fool's Day prankishness.

Of course, in these days there is much less time for the pleasant foolishness that is tolerated, if not always approved, on the first day of April. But, after all, it is the younger generation that gets the biggest kick out of the occasion and it gives them an outlet for some of the deviltry they have cooked up since Hallowe'en.

So, before the day is out you may be informed that your shoelace is untied, there's a smudge of dirt on your face, or any one of a thousand things that just ain't so. But remember, we warned you.

"Othello" Plays Sunday Night at Civic Auditorium

The stupendous Margaret Webster Theatre Guild production of Shakespeare's "Othello," starring Paul Robeson, with Jose Ferrer and Uta Hagen, plays next Sunday night, April 1, in the civic auditorium, San Jose. As the great production is long, as Desdemona in "Othello"

UTA HAGEN

the curtain will rise at 8:15 sharp, and the audience is urged to come early. A huge throng is expected, the same record crowd as has greeted "Othello" everywhere.

Paul Robeson's deep, rich voice is full of magic, his superb stature and smoldering jealous passion being in high dramatic contrast to the fragile and delicate beauty of Uta Hagen as the victimized Desdemona. Jose Ferrer as the crafty, scheming Iago is second to none in his characterization.

"Life With Father" on April 15; Rise Stevens on April 20; the Katherine Dunham Dancers on April 23; and Yehudi Menuhin on April 27, make April a succession of the greatest metropolitan attractions in San Jose.

Tickets are on sale at the Denny-Watrous box office, San Jose civic auditorium.

THE BOOK MARK

NEWS OF THE LATEST "WHODUNITS."

"The Outsiders" by A. E. Martin.

The author takes his readers to Australia for the setting of this thriller. He carries them into a strange new world, behind the scenes and into the everyday lives of a small isolated group of people. These are the side-show artists, the freaks, sword swallowers, fat and bearded and tattoed ladies, giants, midgets, fire eaters. He shows how they live behind the facade of indifference they present in their public existence, and how they are affected by the abnormalties which earn them their daily bread. He also tells the story of Pel Pelham, a normal man who makes a business of exploiting these curiosities to the paying public. When murder happens, it is Pel who, by solving the crimes, wins justice for these outsiders.

It's a good yarn.

"The Jade Venus" by George Harmon Coxe.

Kent Murdock, Boston news photographer, back from Italy, where he was in the fine arts division of the A. M. G., runs into double murder, having plenty to do with a green surrealist painting worth about 30 cents of any man's money. Kent applies his infra-red technique to several pictures, brushes up his deductive faculties and catches an unexpected killer practically red handed. Slick story!

"Shape of Danger" by Axel Kielland.

Apparently the writers of "Whodunits" are of the male element of late. Those of you who demand your thrillers be written by men, take note of these right-off-the-press tales. They are full of tough and rugged dialogue. Axel Kielland writes a story of Norwegian underground. If you want a breathless thriller plus a love story that spells Ingrid Bergman on every page, this one, by a Norwegian now living in Sweden, is the book to ask for.

Sgt. Dick Arlidge Awarded Medal

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England — Sgt. Richard R. Arlidge, 20 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Arlidge of Campbell, has been awarded the Air Medal, it was recently announced by Colonel James S. Sutton of Findlay, Ohio, commanding officer of the veteran 306th Bomb Group.

Sgt. Arlidge received the decoration for "meritorious achievement" while serving as tail gunner of a B-17 Flying Fortress during sustained combat operations over enemy territory.

A veteran of many daylight bombing attacks against targets in Nazi Germany, Sgt. Arlidge has participated in some of the 8th Air Force's greatest assaults of recent months. Besides flying in the huge formations of heavy bombers that pounded vital synthetic oil refineries in the Hamburg-Harburg area, he has taken part in many attacks on tactical targets—bridges, supply centers, railway marshalling yards and communications—in co-ordination with the Allied ground offensive.

Sgt. Arlidge was a student at the Campbell Union High school when he entered the Army Air Forces in June, 1944.

Pvt. Ben Carvelho Is Serving in Air Command

An Air Service Command Depot, England—Stepped-up bombing attacks on Germany and improved plane performance are credited, in large measure, to production records set during 1944 by the manufacturing and repair shop in England at which Pvt. Benjamin V. Carvelho of Campbell, is serving, according to figures just released by headquarters of the Air Service Command.

In the last year, his department turned out an unprecedented 3,000,000 bomb slings which have doubled and trebled the bomb loads of fighters and bombers. In addition, he helped speed 95,000 modification kits to combat units, where front-line mechanics used parts, equipment and directions contained in the kits to make plane improvements in a hurry.

Pvt. Carvelho is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carvelho, Rt. 2, Box 207, Budd avenue, Campbell. A soldier since January 1943 he has been overseas for 12 months. He graduated from Campbell Union High school in 1942 and attended San Jose State college.

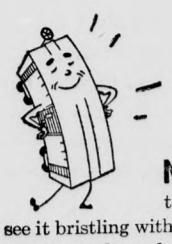
Meet the "workhorse" of the railroads



Not glamorous, not a "show-off"—the unpretentious box car. You never see it bristling with Sherman tanks, 105 mm howitzers, 10-ton trucks and jeeps, like the flat cars and gondolas. It's just a modest workhorse—doing one of the biggest war transportation jobs of all.

When you see a mile-long string of box cars, just think of this. These plain, unassuming cars are carrying the war to Japan. Inside are airplane engines, parts to outfit ships, medical supplies for our men in the Pacific, millions of tons of foodstuffs and ammunition and small arms.

For nearly all the war cargo that goes to sea, goes by rail first. And this huge transportation job is just as important as fast production in our war factories.

The humble box car best symbolizes the fact that transportation is not the job of one railroad. It's the job of all railroads working closely together—pooling their resources and exchanging equipment and facilities.

That is why you see on Southern Pacific rails the box cars of nearly every railroad in the country—New York Central, Erie, L & N, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Burlington, Rock Island, Pennsylvania, Southern, Western Pacific, and Santa Fe to name just a few.

As the pressure on Japan increases, you will see an increasing number of war freights rolling on Southern Pacific's 15,000 miles of line. That's because Southern Pacific serves the major West Coast ports of embarkation and more military and naval establishments than any other railroad.

When you see these freight cars, representing almost every railroad, let it remind you how all the railroads are working closely together to deliver the stuff our fighting men need—on time!

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

CECIL B. DE MILLE has been called a combination of Napoleon, Belasco and Beau Brummel, but P. T. Barnum would be much better, because De Mille, like Barnum, is a great showman.

His record is unbelievable. His films have earned a shocking amount of money—more than $200,000,000. This doesn't include returns from his latest, "The Story of Dr. Wassell," which stars Gary Cooper and which Paramount claims will make more money than any other Paramount picture with one exception, perhaps—"Reap the Wild Wind," in which I got my puss for a smart quarter of an hour.

Cecil B. De Mille

Ever since C. B. founded Hollywood as the movie capital of the world (in 1913 with "The Squaw Man") his astute showmanship has been apparent. "The Sign of the Cross," "King of Kings" (which still is the most played film in history), and "The Ten Commandments" still are milestones in this picture business of ours.

King for a Day

De Mille is a wise and gay man rich with wisdom and experience. At 63 years he's become spokesman for the film capital. He reaches 40,000,000 people weekly on his radio show. When he recently went to Washington, D. C., to participate in the premiere of "The Story of Dr. Wassell" he was given the No. 1 treatment reserved invariably for visiting potentates. He got pomp and circumstance from the President down the line to foreign ambassadors. In other words, for one day the most discussed man back there was C. B. De Mille. He set the stage and they gave him the works.

Many entertaining stories have grown up about him—many of them true, too. There was, for instance, the time De Mille was making "Cleopatra," and the sequence called for Claudette Colbert to grasp an asp (that's a snake, dearie) to her breast and let it do her in. De Mille knew Claudette loathed snakes. He knew if he asked her to hold one she'd walk off the set—or faint. Well, two weeks before the scene De Mille rented a huge boa constrictor from a local zoo, had it brought on the set in a box. Claudette fainted when she saw it. De Mille told her to be brave, to try to get used to its presence. Then one day before the scene was scheduled De Mille had a tiny asp brought in. "What's that?" asked Claudette. "This little thing is just an asp," De Mille replied, looking at Claudette. "Why, that itty-bitty thing couldn't hurt anybody," said Claudette, picking up the asp and looking sideways at the huge reptile in the box. "Who could be afraid of a little thing like you?" Claudette said as she did the scene; and De Mille smiled wisely.

Time or the day means nothing to C. B. when he's making pictures. Sundays, nights, they're all the same.

Well, What Else?

During "North West Mounted Police" De Mille was doing a scene of a group of supposedly badly wounded Mounties returning to their barracks, which were aflame. For hours his assistant rehearsed the men. After many rehearsals, what with being bound up with bandages, splints, crutches, carrying litters, etc., the men were tired. De Mille called for a final rehearsal. The Mounties dragged themselves out of camera range, then, summoning their waning strength, began to march across the lot. De Mille watched their weary progress. Suddenly he shouted: "Stop! Stop! What in heaven's name do you men think you are? A bunch of cripples?"

Hollywood's pet story about De Mille is the one about the great Los Angeles earthquake of years back. As the earth shook and rumbled and the players were tossed from their beds they awoke shouting, "Yes, yes, Mr. De Mille!"

But his wife tells this one. It's her favorite story. Some years ago he was in the back country around New Orleans, and some natives, hearing his name and voice, said, "O, Mr. De Mille, you sure are our favorite!" C. B. beamed and asked, "Which of my pictures did you like best?" "O, is you in pictures, too? We meant you is our favorite on the radio." And that, my buddies, is his favorite, too. He's just a ham at heart—and aren't we all?

Ready for Anything

William Demarest received a pistol from Winfield Sheehan. So on location Gary Cooper's teaching him to shoot. That came in handy when Demarest woke up at the crack of dawn and heard voices outside. He looked out, and there was a great big guy trying to get through his gate. He grabbed his pistol, ran downstairs, opened the door, and said, "Stick 'em up!" The fellow turned out to be a merchant seaman, a bit fuzzy and lost. Demarest ended up cooking breakfast for him.

PLAN AHEAD FOR 194X LIVING...

Plan now for functional arrangement, complete equipment and adequate wiring

Be really positive, insistent and "fussy" about the functional arrangement and convenience details of your next kitchen. Clip ideas you like out of magazines and paste them in your new home scrapbook. Save kitchen layout plans and articles. Careful planning now will result in a 194X kitchen that will be convenient to work in.

Functional planning ties the kitchen together for easier work by handy arrangement of shelves and cupboards in relation to your range, sink, and refrigerator or food storage space. Food can be prepared and cooked with a minimum of tiresome trotting about.

Your 194X kitchen will be well lighted by a ceiling fixture—probably a smart new fluorescent lamp, together with local lighting at range, sink, under kitchen cabinets and other work centers. Adequate wiring, provided by several circuits, will take care of the many plug-in outlets for all the kitchen appliances you now have or the new ones you will buy after the war.

Now is the time to plan ahead for 194X—the new era of the joy of living in your present or future home.
